1961 (Nov): Journal of the National Chiropractic Association [31(11)] includes:
-John F. Thie, D.C. authors "News flashes: CALIFORNIA" (pp. 46-7):
Fiftieth Annual Homecoming at LACC

The Los Angeles College of Chiropractic held its fiftieth annual homecoming celebration beginning October 12 at the Los Angeles College of Chiropractic in Glendale, California. The festivities began with a golf tournament at Brookside Golf Course in Pasadena. Drs. John Sullivan and Charles Davis were co-chairmen.

The homecoming dance was held Friday evening at the Glendale Elks Club, with music by the Glendale Elks Band.

The program on Saturday began with orthopedic casts and appliances being demonstrated by members of the American College of Chiropractic Orthopedists. Dr. Smilax Sandau, president of the Alumni Association, gave the official greetings on Saturday and stated that the Alumni Association's gift to the college this year was the new auditorium seats.

Dr. Frank Maurice, president of the California Chiropractic Association, gave a very interesting and informative talk titled "Why Failure Cases?"

The Honorable Douglas B. Campbell, referee, California Industrial Accident Commission, presented an excellent discussion on chiropractic's role in workmen's compensation cases.

The Hon. Richard Richards, California state senator, spoke on "Chiropractic and the Legislature," and as usual gave a very excellent and informative presentation which was both practical and inspirational.

Dr. Howard Fenton, a member of the California Board of Chiropractic Examiners, and past president of the California Chiropractic Association, gave a fine presentation on the scope of chiropractic and how some of the "supposedly chiropractic organizations" are defeating their alleged purposes of increasing the scope of chiropractic in California.

On Sunday Dr. Norman Harris presented an excellent and informative talk on "Foot Correction as it Relates to the Postural Complex."

Dr. James W. Parker, director of the Parker Chiropractic Research Foundation, of Fort Worth, Texas, spoke to a packed audience in his own inimitable manner, and I'm sure again inspired the doctors to make greater efforts in research and service in chiropractic.

Dr. Alec Wernsing spoke on the values and interpretations relative to specific atlas technique.

The final program of the day was presented under the auspices of the Academy of Chiropractic Science.

The County Chiropractic Auxiliary of Los Angeles held its second annual lyceum on Saturday, October 14, in conjunction with the homecoming. It was under the direction of Mrs. Andrew Saris, president of the Auxiliary, and assisted by Mrs. John F. Thie. – John F. Thie, NCA state delegate.